

EXAMPLE ARTICLE SNIPPETS

Yes, There Are Alternatives to Ebay!

Just as Google is not the only search engine, eBay is not the only auction site. In fact, eBay thinks it has the monopoly over most other auction sites. It shows this by charging the highest fees, having a customer support system, that often leaves a lot to be desired and by frequently pulling auctions for no apparent reason.

Granted, when people think of an auction site they will usually think of eBay, but a little Internet research and this article will show you a couple of great alternative auction sites, which have better features than eBay and even free listings, so you can experiment with them at no additional cost or risk.

Sound Advice for Joining an Online Investment Club

In many ways, an online investment club is no different than the more traditional living-room based investment club. An online investment club will still involve signing a partnership agreement, having bank and brokerage accounts, bylaws to abide to, appointed officers and hopefully a successful stock portfolio.

Yes, an online investment club has all the benefits of a traditional off line club, including each individual being able to invest a small amount each month, to help build a profitable and balanced portfolio. At the same time, these individuals can learn about investing as part of a group, safe in the knowledge that many of the risks of investing are reduced by being part of this group.

Are You, or Your Dog Guilty of This?

While you are very unlikely to do a poop in public, your dog will and has! If you leave the poop and don't clear it up, then you and your dog are guilty of making your neighborhood a less pleasant and safe place to be.

It is not nice for anyone to get dog mess on their shoes, or that children playing in the park might get it on their hands and clothes. But that's not the half of it, dog mess often contains canine diseases and parasites, which puts children and other dogs at risk.

The #1 Strategy For Writing Excellent Copy

This is an easy way to get your sales letter ready for your website, in record time.

To do this I have to let you into a little secret...

Some of the most renowned copywriters don't create their copywriting masterpieces from scratch, because that would take far too long and be far too much effort.

No, they have a swipe file of past successful ideas and sales letters, which have pulled in millions of dollars. They simply 'steal' and recycle successful sales literature.

They know that they are more likely to create a money creating sales letter this way, rather than wasting precious time and resources on creating a brand new piece, which has a higher possibility of failure.

Mole Removal - Austin Powers Has a Lot to Answer For

Austin Powers has done for mole removal, what Barbie has done for plastic surgery!

It's hard to love your body, moles and all. It's like the way people look at their bodies and think what ways plastic surgery could better help their appearance. Although mole removal doesn't have to be expensive or so intrusive, it can still be a major cause for a lack of confidence.

I'm sure you recall the scene, where Austin Powers goes "m, m.m, m.m, m.m.m.m, m.mo, Mole, MOLE!" and then proceeds to poke and point at the Mole's mole.

This memorable scene is a nightmare for people with visible and unsightly moles, as it is recited by insensitive jerks around the world.

Twitter How To - The Art Behind a Good Twitter Post

Twitter is a medium where people can see the 'real' you, so first and foremost you can create Twitter posts about your day-to-day life, actions and thoughts. I am not saying that you write a Twitter post every waking moment of your life, or every blink, but when something worth tweeting comes up. This something can be humorous, or an insight into your daily life.

These tweets will reveal if you are nuts, or you have something in common with other people. I have found other people on Twitter who also get woken up by their pets nudging them, who can never find a comfortable pair of shoes no matter how hard they try, who prefer reading transcripts rather than watching videos and people who I've managed to help when I spot a question I can answer.

So the first thing you should know about Twitter posting is to look at what people are saying. Yep I am giving you full permission to eavesdrop on people's conversations! So if you see a Twitter post that you'd like to comment on (even if it's addressed to someone else with an @) feel free to join in.

10 Tips to Keep Office Boredom From Nipping You on the Butt

When the day is dragging, or you are just darned tired of the monotony of the 9 to 5 working lifestyle, here are some tips to either add a smile to your day, or purpose to your life! Please note I do not take any responsibility, if you decide to use any of these tips, just remember not doing your work is a sack-able offense (unless you work for yourself).

1. Go through the names on the company database and pick out all the movie star names. I've found lots of Harry Potter related names on our database - even a Dobie! You can also have a giggle at the surnames, which you are glad you don't have (or ones to make sure that you don't marry into)!
 2. Having a chat or whinge to your colleagues. Things can seem so much better after a wander around the office, getting everyone's opinions, rather than being stuck in a cubicle mulling it over all by yourself.
 3. Doodle. Yep doodling and scribbling on your desk pad (whatever you like to call it) can be relaxing, especially if you don't know what you are going to create. It could be a Mr Messy or a masterpiece. It's an essential activity, which relieves the tedium of those long boring phone calls.
-

Put the Binaural Beat Into the Start of Your Day

Do you ever feel that your brain is just not doing what you are telling it to?

I used to get this feeling, especially on a Monday morning, after an exhausting, but fun weekend when you feel little better than a zombified mummy. You walk around aimlessly, until you get your morning coffee and begin to feel a bit more human than a ghost.

Actually truth be told, this is how I used to feel most mornings. Except I didn't have a coffee, I had an energy drink, or two. I needed one in the morning and one at lunchtime, so I didn't suffer from an afternoon slump, where I could barely keep my eyes open.

All that extra caffeine kept my heart pumping fast and my eyes wide open, but I knew it wasn't a particularly good habit I had got myself into. Energy drinks had become my replacement for cigarettes and I was still putting a strain on my heart.

Then someone told me about binaural beats.

Some Causes of Back Pain and the Back Pain Relief Products to Soothe Them

Almost everybody in the world gets back pain, at some time or other in their life time. This could be due to any amount of things, but one of the things that I believe, is the fact that we are not really designed to walk on two legs, we have just evolved that way.

Most good doctors will tell you that your normal irritable back pain is a common thing, but then there are those special circumstances where something is really wrong and a good doctor will recognize this by sending you to a specialist. Or they can give us some good back pain relief products.

Most of us get lumber pain, which is in the small of the back, the part that carries a lot of weight and works with the lower part of the body to keep us upright. When you have had bad pain in your lumber region you will never forget it, and I can attest to this personally.

My biggest and best bit of advice here is if you have bad back pain, do not leave it for any length of time, as it can make the condition worse. They never really knew what the cause of my prolapsed disc was, it could have been anything from jumping off a wall and hitting my butt hard, to landing wrong doing a parachute jump when I was in the army.

Whatever it was my back will never be the same, but I have found some back pain relief products that work for me. If you are suffering with back pain or even want to prevent it, then here are some products that will not just help, but could actually prevent it too.

Water For Gas - The Best Fuel Alternative, Until They Clone a Fuel Free Herbie

With our environment in the state that it is in, we need to turn to renewable energy sources, especially when it comes to our beloved cars. Let's face it, where would we be without them, but even more importantly where would we be, without our planet?

There's the environmental concern, and there is also the concern over rising gas prices. I know which one impacts us more on a daily basis! I don't want to be putting more money into the hands of the already fat cats, because of a war and soaring oil prices, so I started looking into alternative fuels for my car, after hearing someone mention Water 4 Gas.

This was not the only alternative fuel I looked into.

Solar energy has been long recognized as a great energy source, you will see the telltale signs of solar cells on roofs in many places all over the world. Solar powered cars are in the offing. However, so far this technology for use on automobiles has proved inefficient and unreliable, but could be a viable option in the future.

Electric cars have been around for several years and the technology, designs and workings are getting better. They definitely work better than solar powered cars, but they still run out of electric after a certain amount of miles and need recharging every night.

I'm still waiting for them to clone a Herbie that doesn't need fuel, but in the meantime I came across water powered cars. I think I have found the answer to my alternative fuel dilemma.